the west on a visit with her brother, Fire kissed her under the tulips." Bad shot.

Right plumb on the tulips rings the belle.

weeks has been damaging potato vines.
Those on John Hammerli's place in Palmyra are rotting on account of the dampness.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Cropsey start this evening for Cheyenne. We hope their visits here will be frequent, that the acquaintance so pleasantly begun may be continued.

She was beautiful in her cap and gown
And captured the hearts of the boys in town,
But ah! she won not a single decree—
While the ugly ones took from A to Z.
—New York Herald.

from her mother, Mrs. Annie Scantling, and a sister, Mrs. Tought, of Harrisburg, Pa. Mrs. Scantling will make Dixon her future home.

ment.

—Mrs. Anna Kellogg, of New York City, has purchased of Mrs. Amos S.
Whitney the house and lot on the northeast corner of Chambers and Gilbraith streets, North Dixon; paying twenty-four hundred dollars.

—Some evil disposed person started the report that Isaac Means had sold out, but that veteran business man of our city advertises in this paper that he is still on deck and prepared to sell coal cheaper than any of them.

—Joe M. Kannaly has resigned his in Perry's pharmacy at Sterling. The young man has made many acquaintances here who will regret his departure.

—Miss Florence J. Gantz started Wednesday for Ishpeming, Michigan, to spend the summer vacation with her cousin, Miss Nellie M. Wadsworth, and a telegram just received says mercury only 68

cool air home.

New York City branch of the Pennsyl-bed by the tramp near the C. & N. W. depot a few days ago, is now threatened with secondary hemorrhage. He is at the Central House and the doctors are doing all they can to bring him through the dangerous crisis.

—We judge from the headings of the papers in the "Popular Science Monthly" July, which is upon our table, that the number is full of interesting reading.
However, this magazine always has much to instruct and entertain. Any number is worth almost the price of a years subscription. D. Appleton & Co., New York, publishers.

—Many of the carpenters of this city are taking it easy these hot days, and are not at work. This was by the permission of some of the boss builders. Other laborers in the line of house building are also, on that account taking a hot weather vacation. Well, it is better to rest and lay idle a day or so than to be laid up several weeks from the effects of the heat.

THAT NEW SHOE FACTORY.

Full arrangements were completed yesterday for the removal of the C. M. Henderson & Company Shoe Factory, now at Fon du Lac, Wisconsin, to Dixon. Negotiations have been for some time going on with a view to accomplishing this result, but the agreements and papers were not finally completed until yesterday.
However, our people have been well aware for several weeks that the factory at Fon du Lac would be moved to Dixon and therefore we are not to-day printing very startling news. We have not sooner mentioned the fact of the proposed removal for the reason that we were requested by Mr. Henderson not to publish the matter. The factory at Fon du Lac now employs about two hundred hands in the manufacture of a better class of goods than are made elsewhere generally in factories, being fine shoes for men.
The workmen on that grade of shoes are paid better wages than those who make children's and women's shoes.

When the Fon du Lac factory has become fully established here it will make a valuable addition to the manufacturing interests of Dixon; giving employment in the Riverside factory to over six hundred hands, with a pay roll annually of perhaps over one hundred thousand dollars.
Mr. Watson, of the firm of Henderson & C., informed us that they would commence building as soon as arrangements could be made for work and material.
The new factory will be located on the vacant lots east of the present factory and will cost eighteen or twenty thousand dollars.

—Fred Lawrey, eighteen years of age, was drowned in the river near the shoe factory last evening. He was attending college from Dakota. His companions who were in swimming with him say that he could not swim and that there were so many boys in the water yelling, laughing and splashing water, that no one heard the unfortunate boy cry for help. He had waded out too far and the rapid current swept him away. A companion saw him sink below the surface of the water. The body has not yet been recovered.

As we go to press we learn that the remains were found in the river about half a mile below the shoe factory.

—Those of our citizens inclined to sport enjoyed yesterday afternoon at Maple Park. A half mile bicycle race for boys eighteen years old and under was won easily by Willie Trien; Milton (Doc) Green second, and Charlie Wild third.
The first two received handsome gold and silver medals that were donated by E. L.
Kling. The big race between Davis and Scovell was declared off because of the sickness of Scovell. It is hoped that these racers will at an early day contest for speed as there is a difference in opinions as to which is the best man on the wheel.
The ball game was won by the home club against Amboy sixteen to seven. The batteries were Worthington-Woodyard and Edwards-Wilson. Edward's arm gave out in a short time but while he was at it he showed good work. Several of the Amboy club took a turn in the box.
A grand stand should be erected at the Park and if the business men of Dixon will raise one hundred dollars James Clark informs us that he will donate sufficient additional funds for a good one.

—James Tracy, an old and respected citizen of Dixon, died last night at his home near the C. & N. W. depot. Mr.
Tracy was aged over seventy years. He came to this country from Waterford county, Ireland, about forty years ago.
He had long been well known for his genial, social ways, having a good word for all and sparkling touch of Irish wit that did no harm as handled by Jimmie in his kid-gloved gentlemanly way of replying to old and young. He took a just pride in his education, especially was he up in literary and mathematical branches, and could quote from Shakespeare as readily as a Booth. He taught a private school in this city before the war. The school was held in the Brook's building, now occupied by Dan McKenney as a living stable. A number of our old citizens attended that school, among them were Dominick Ford, William Peter, John Cofey, John Hanlon, Owen and Henry Smith, Mrs. Green, Mike Tangley, and John McGrath. James Tracy enlisted in the 46th regiment and was wounded at the terrible battle of Pittsburg Landing.
He then was given a position in the commissary department. He was married at Troy, N. Y., and his wife and three children survive him. Death took him peacefully while he was in his rocking chair, about half past seven last evening. Many a heart in this community, especially among the early settlers will read with sadness of the death of Jimmie Tracy.
As he would have us say out of respect to his favorite author

"He gave his honors to the world again,
His blessed part to Heaven, and slept in peace."
The funeral service will be held at St. Patrick's church to-morrow afternoon at half past two.

—The annual meeting of the Rock River Valley Association of the A. O.
U. W. held in this city yesterday was very much enjoyed by those who participated from this and our neighboring cities.
Sterling, Rock Falls, Albany, Rochelle and Morrison. Col. H. T. Noble, Mayor of the city, gave a very pleasing address of welcome which was responded to by

S. F. Shirley of Rock Falls. The speech of the day was delivered by the Rev. J.
M. Ruthrauff, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, of this city. These exercises were held in the Court House Park. From half past four until six o'clock a business meeting was held at A. O. U. Hall at which it was decided to hold the meeting of 1891 at Rock Falls and the following officers for the Association were elected: President, S. F. Shirley; Vice Presidents, J. M. Ruthrauff, this city; John Bird, Rochelle; John Koberstein, Sterling; Secretary, M. A. Shirley, Rock Falls; Treasurer, John Collins, Rock Falls.
From five until eight a supper was served at G. A. R. Hall and more than three hundred people were fed.

On account of the excessive heat the evening entertainment which was to have been held at the Opera House was held in the Court House Park and the program changed and carried out as follows: Singing by the Palmyra Quartette Club; Declamation "Kit Carson's Ride," by Dana Johnson; Speech by A. M. McLean, of McComb, Grand Receiver of Illinois.
During this and the afternoon program Smith's and the Rochelle Kid Band rendered sweet music. At ten o'clock the members of the Association and their ladies gathered at the Opera House and dined to the sweet music of Smith's Orchestra until the morning hours. Joseph Petersberger acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the speakers.

THE ULTIMATUM,

Given by the Illinois Central to the Strikers.

WILL MAKE NO JONAH OF RUSSELL.

The Road Proposes to Fight It Out on That Line If It Takes All Summer—A Lively Meeting of the Strikers Concludes to Postpone a General Tie-Up Until Further Negotiations Are Had—Outlook Not Hopeless.

CHICAGO, June 27.—The conference between the officials of the Illinois Central railway and the strikers' committee lasted until 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The final answer of the company was to the effect that they would not be justified in removing Mr. Russell from his position. The committee of the strikers reported at once at their headquarters, and last evening a big meeting of strikers was held. Nearly 400 were in attendance. The meeting was secret, and its import and results could only be gleaned from the statements secured after its close. From the street frequent and hearty applause could be heard, and it was evident that the report of the committee and speeches made were approved. The matter of final settlement was left in abeyance, however, until this morning, when a meeting was held beginning at 9 o'clock. The strikers show no signs of weakening, and unless some compromise can be effected to-day nothing can prevent the strike spreading.

It is the Company's Ultimatum. Referring to the decision of the company, "That," said General Superintendent Sullivan, "is the company's ultimatum. It is the end of diplomatic relations. We have given a fair and impartial hearing to the men. We have kept out all prejudice and on the basis of a thorough investigation of the charges made have felt compelled to sustain Mr. Russell. The whole matter now rests with the men. If they accept that decision the trouble is at an end; if not, I suppose it means fight."

After the Men Act, What? "In case the men do not accept the decision, what course will you take?" "Well, I will not cross bridges before I get to them. That the men did not get what they wanted is certain, but I have confidence that on mature reflection they will see that we have adopted a wise and just policy and will decide to declare the strike off."

"Did the committeemen intimate in any way whether the decision would be accepted?" "No. There was no comment, no expression of opinion that would imply approval or disapproval, and hence I have no idea as to the probable result of our conference."

The Strikers Weakening. That the men have weakened since the strike was inaugurated is manifest. During the conference, when it was clear that the officials were set on supporting Mr. Russell, they sought to have his power restricted, stating that they were sure if his authority could be so limited as to insure the safety of the old employees from discharge and annoyance they would be satisfied. The matter was argued at length, but the officials were obdurate in their determination to make no concessions.

"We could not consistently hamper Mr. Russell with restrictions," said Mr. Sullivan. "Each official's duties are fixed, partly by custom and partly by rules promulgated by the board of directors."

Hoping for a Settlement. After the strikers' meeting had closed last night, one of the participants was seen. "I can't give you much information," said he. "That there is a division of opinion is certain from the speeches made. Just what will be done in the matter has not been determined, but from the general drift of the talk, I imagine a settlement will be effected this morning."

As to Superintendent Russell. Many stories have been set afloat by the strikers as to Mr. Russell's connection with other roads, all such stories being to his discredit; they cannot be confirmed. During his railway career he has been connected in an executive capacity with the Intercolonial railway, the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha, the Great Northern, the Minneapolis and St. Louis, and the Chicago, St. Paul and Kansas City, each of which roads he left because of a better position being offered him on account of merit.

No Respect for Freight Owners. The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific had some perishable freight in the Illinois Central yard, and sent over their own switch engine with a lot of brakemen and switchmen, and tried to get the freight over on their own tracks, but the Illinois Central strikers would not allow them to enter the yard. They flung the switch at the entrance, and placed a guard at that point to keep the Rock Island people out of the yard.

Double Murder at Morris, Ill. MORRIS, Ill., June 27.—White-haired Mrs. Frank Decker and her son Charles Decker, a well-to-do farmer, were the victims of what will probably prove a double murder early yesterday morning. Burglars entered their house and murderously assaulted the two people, crushing their skulls with heavy bludgeons. The whole community is out after the fiends, but so far nothing has been seen of them.

The Farm Hill Mine. DUNBAR, Pa., June 27.—At 2 o'clock this morning another shift of men was taken into the mines. Those who came out say they are within a few feet of the burning mine. They will be in the Hill Farm mine before 10 o'clock to-day, but it will require at least three hours to test the air.

Hemingway Gets Five Years. ST. LOUIS, June 27.—The Chronicle's special from Jackson, Miss., says: The court overruled the motion for a new trial in Treasurer Hemingway's case and sentenced him to five years' imprisonment. He is now out on $10,000 bonds pending an appeal.

The Chicago Race Course. CHICAGO, June 27.—At Washington park yesterday the winning horses were: Racine, 1 mile, 1:41; Prophecy, 1 1/4 miles, 1:55; Palestine, 3/4 mile, 1:01 1/4; Mora, 1 mile, 1:43; Robespierre, 1 1/4 miles, 2:09 1/4.

STERN BROS.,

OPERA BLOCK, DIXON.

His Memory Deceived Him.

A man who was accused of theft set up a plea of insanity, hoping thereby to elude punishment. Professor Mendel, of Berlin, was deputed to examine the prisoner and report on the state of his mind. He found the man lying in bed. To all the questions that he put, such as how old he was, where he lived, what he was called, the patient invariably replied:

"I don't know."

Then Professor M. took sixpence out of his purse and asked again how much it was.

"I don't know," was the answer, as before.

The doctor then asked for the prisoner's purse, out of which he took a shilling, and once more the man declared he didn't know its value; whereupon Professor M. put the sixpence into the prisoner's purse while transferring the shilling to his own. Here the patient interfered, saying:

"Why, doctor, you've made a mistake."

The imposture was laid bare.—Beecher Courier.

Fleeing Buffalo Bill.

Buffalo Bill's first performance in Naples was pretty well attended, but, on counting up the receipts, the cashier discovered that over two thousand francs in spurious bank notes had been paid in at the ticket office for which change had been given in good, genuine, hard cash. Col. Cody hurried off to the prefecture in great excitement to lodge his complaint. The civil functionary, after listening to his grievances, could find nothing better to say than, "Che gran popolo!" [Just like those Italians! What a grand nation!]—Exchange.

In the Grammar School.

Teacher—Freddy, you may go to the principal's room and see if he is in, and then come and tell me.

Freddy (on his return)—He ain't there.

Teacher (severely)—He ain't there! Freddy (correcting himself)—He is out out.—Harper's Bazar.

Substitute for the Mulberry.

In France the scorzonera, or salsifis, has been advantageously substituted for the mulberry in rearing silk worms. The silk produced is said to be equal to that of the worms fed upon mulberry leaves, and surpasses that obtained from worms fed upon lettuce leaves.—Dry Goods Chronicle.

Effects of Good Drainage.

An extremely interesting example of the serious importance of sanitation is found in the German town of Munich. An excellent system of drainage works was established there in 1881, and the annual deaths from typhoid fever, which had numbered 245 up to 1880, were reduced in 1881 to 40, the yearly average since that time.

Buy Land in Africa.

A gentleman who has just returned from South Africa says that it is one of the best countries in the world for profitable real estate investments.

"South Africa," he says, "already has thriving and beautiful towns, and it is destined to be the seat of a great and progressive English speaking race. When I was there some years ago I was surprised at the extensive improvements, at the energy of the people, and the natural resources of the land. It is the place of places to put away a few thousand dollars to let them grow."—Toronto Empire.

TRUE TO HIS WORD.

Good Advice That Was Followed and Recalled on the Head of the Giver.

Giving advice is one thing, and feeling the effects of having it followed is quite another thing. Professor Julius Eichberg, the well known violinist, says that he once had as a pupil a promising little fellow of some 8 years, who would not study. As the boy was about to set out with his family for the country, where they were to pass the summer, Mr. Eichberg asked him what he should do there.

"Oh," said the boy, "I shall play and pick flowers and have a good time."

"Yes; but suppose you made up your mind to get up an hour earlier every morning to practice? You would still have time for sport, and in the fall you would be able to play those sonatas you admire."

The result of the conversation was that Otto flung himself upon the neck of his teacher, of whom he was very fond, and promised to do what was asked of him.

A few weeks later, as Mr. Eichberg was driving through the mountains with his family, he was one day delayed, so that the hotel where they were to pass the night was reached at a late hour of the night.

The accommodations were poor, and the night was warm, and it was near morning before the travelers fairly got to sleep, and it seemed to Mr. Eichberg that he scarcely closed his eyes before he was aroused by the doleful sound of a violin in a room overhead, where some one was at work upon an exercise with which the listener was only too familiar.

For an interminable hour he tossed about, hoping that the noise would cease; then he rose and dressed and hastened to the office of the hotel to protest.

"Yes, it is something of a nuisance," the clerk answered, coolly, "but we are used to it here. The boy has played every morning this summer, and it was in the bargain when they took the rooms that he should be allowed to do it."

It was evidently of no use to complain to the clerk, and Mr. Eichberg relieved his mind by declaring that he should at least like to see the player of the violin.

"Oh, you can see him if you want to," the clerk said. "He has just come downstairs. You will find him outside there."

Away hurried the guest, the more irritated by the way in which his remonstrance had been received, and before the door on the lawn stood a trim little lad with his face turned away.

"Are you the boy," demanded Mr. Eichberg, sternly, "that has been making such a noise on the violin for an hour?"

The boy turned and looked at him, at first with an expression of fright; then, with a cry of joyous recognition, little Otto flung himself impulsively into his teacher's arms.

"Oh, my dear Mr. Eichberg," he cried; "I am so glad to see you! I have got up and played every morning just as I promised!"—Youth's Companion.

Life in Ocean Abysses.

Dr. Regnard has raised the question as to whether a corpse which sinks to a very great depth is preserved indefinitely or otherwise from putrefaction. According to his researches, published in the archives of the Biological society of Paris, putrefaction does not take place in decomposable substances submitted to a pressure of 600 to 700 atmospheres. These figures correspond to a depth of 6,000 to 7,000 meters at sea. From these experiments it must not be concluded, according to Dr. Regnard, that there is a total absence of putrefaction in the greater depths of the sea. The curious "abysmal" fishes discovered in the Challenger and other expeditions appear to rise after death, so that they are sometimes found on the surface, though, as a rule, they go to pieces, as the surrounding pressure diminishes long before they reach the air. Still, there is no proof that bathybal or abyssal micro organisms do not exist; and, if so, they could cause decomposition in the corpses of men as well as in the dead bodies of abyssal fishes. The question is of considerable medico-legal and yet greater biological interest, and it is far from settled.—British Medical Journal.

New Oil Spreader for Stormy Seas.

A difficulty experienced in the use of oil in a storm at sea is that when spread on the surface the wind blows it to leeward and the effect is lost. This difficulty is now overcome by a new device, consisting of a mortar and bomb. The latter is a nearly globular shell of cast iron filled with oil. On the side toward the muzzle as it lies in the mortar is an aperture closed by a hinged cover, fitting tightly and fastened with a sort of latch. The latch is so constructed that when the mortar is discharged the pressure of the air releases it. But the aperture in the shell is not opened until it strikes the water and sinks beneath the surface. The shell is so weighted that as it sinks the aperture is uppermost and the cover is lifted by the pressure of oil upon it. Thus the oil is released well beneath the surface and rises through the waves, producing most effectual results.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

HOUSE of fourteen rooms and large barn, E. C. PARSONS, 1790tf $1500.

My offer of $100 has not been taken, nor would I sell. The fact is, there is no pump and I can compete with the COMBINED AIR and CISTERN PUMP, for purifying water when used in combination with my well, for cisterns, it will draw water from the well or cistern, thus saving an extra pump. The well is improved, the water passes down below the bottom of the cistern through five feet of gravel and sand before entering the well, then upwards in the well through gravel, sand and charcoal, properly prepared and packed. This will keep the water cold, remove all live animal matter, and the well will not require to be repacked. How different from this is an ordinary well where the earth is the filter; there may be some dead reptile at the bottom of the well, or the water may contain poison. If water passing through the earth will become hard adulterated with lime, why will it not hold fifth poisonous matter in solution. The well will be furnished at a reasonable price. Price of cistern pump at shop, $4.00. There should be an air pump in every cistern where there is a chain or suction pump. It will keep the water good. Price of air pump $1.00.

I make the following offer for 30 days: Will put in my Cistern, Well and Combined Air and Cistern Pump, and warrant it to furnish pure water, free from all live animal matter, for $15. Will allow from $1.00 to $2.00 for chain pumps. A cistern water consists of live animal matter; when one of these little animals is magnified it is as large as a spider. They will do no harm when kept in the cistern and you do not drink them, but maybe very harmful when taken into the stomach. These little creatures are very lively when they have plenty of air but die for the want of it when the water becomes very offensive. Pure water is assured to good health. Cholera and some of the most malignant kind have been traced to the drinking of impure water. If you still insist in having the chain pump I can furnish them to you for $1.00 to $2.00. I make a specialty of putting in cisterns. All work warranted.

E. EMMERT, Dixon, Ill. Dixon, June 24, 1890.

I have one of Emmert's Air Pumps. I would not sell it at any price if I could not get another. No family can afford to drink poor water.

J. A. YATES, Dixon, June 24, 1890.

I have one of Emmert's Air Pumps; I am converted and think anyone else would be to see how quick it cleans and sweetens the water in the cistern. There ought to be one in every cistern.

ALEXANDER TURNER, Dixon, June 27, 1890.

We have Emmert's system of water tanks. Come and take a drink of the sparkling water taken from the well and you will be convinced it is the article you want. We think it just, perfect.
